The author wishes to thank all who have assisted in the compiling of this family record; especially Mrs. Mary E. More Knisely of Columbia City, Indiana, who contributed the early history of the More family, which had been written many years ago by her brother. At that time some of the older Mores were still living, and he had obtained the information from them.

Other data was obtained from old family Bibles, from tombstones and by correspondence with descendants of the John and Sarah (Gandy) More family that migrated from Virginia to Ohio in 1806.

(Considering that many of the dates in this record are over one hundred years old, and have been obtained from various sources, the author can not vouch for their authenticity, but believes them to be as accurate as can be obtained at this late date.)

AUTHOR'S TRIBUTE

The fact that this family could be traced after a century and a half had elapsed, proves conclusively that these forefathers were substantial men. Otherwise there would have been no documentary evidence of their existence.

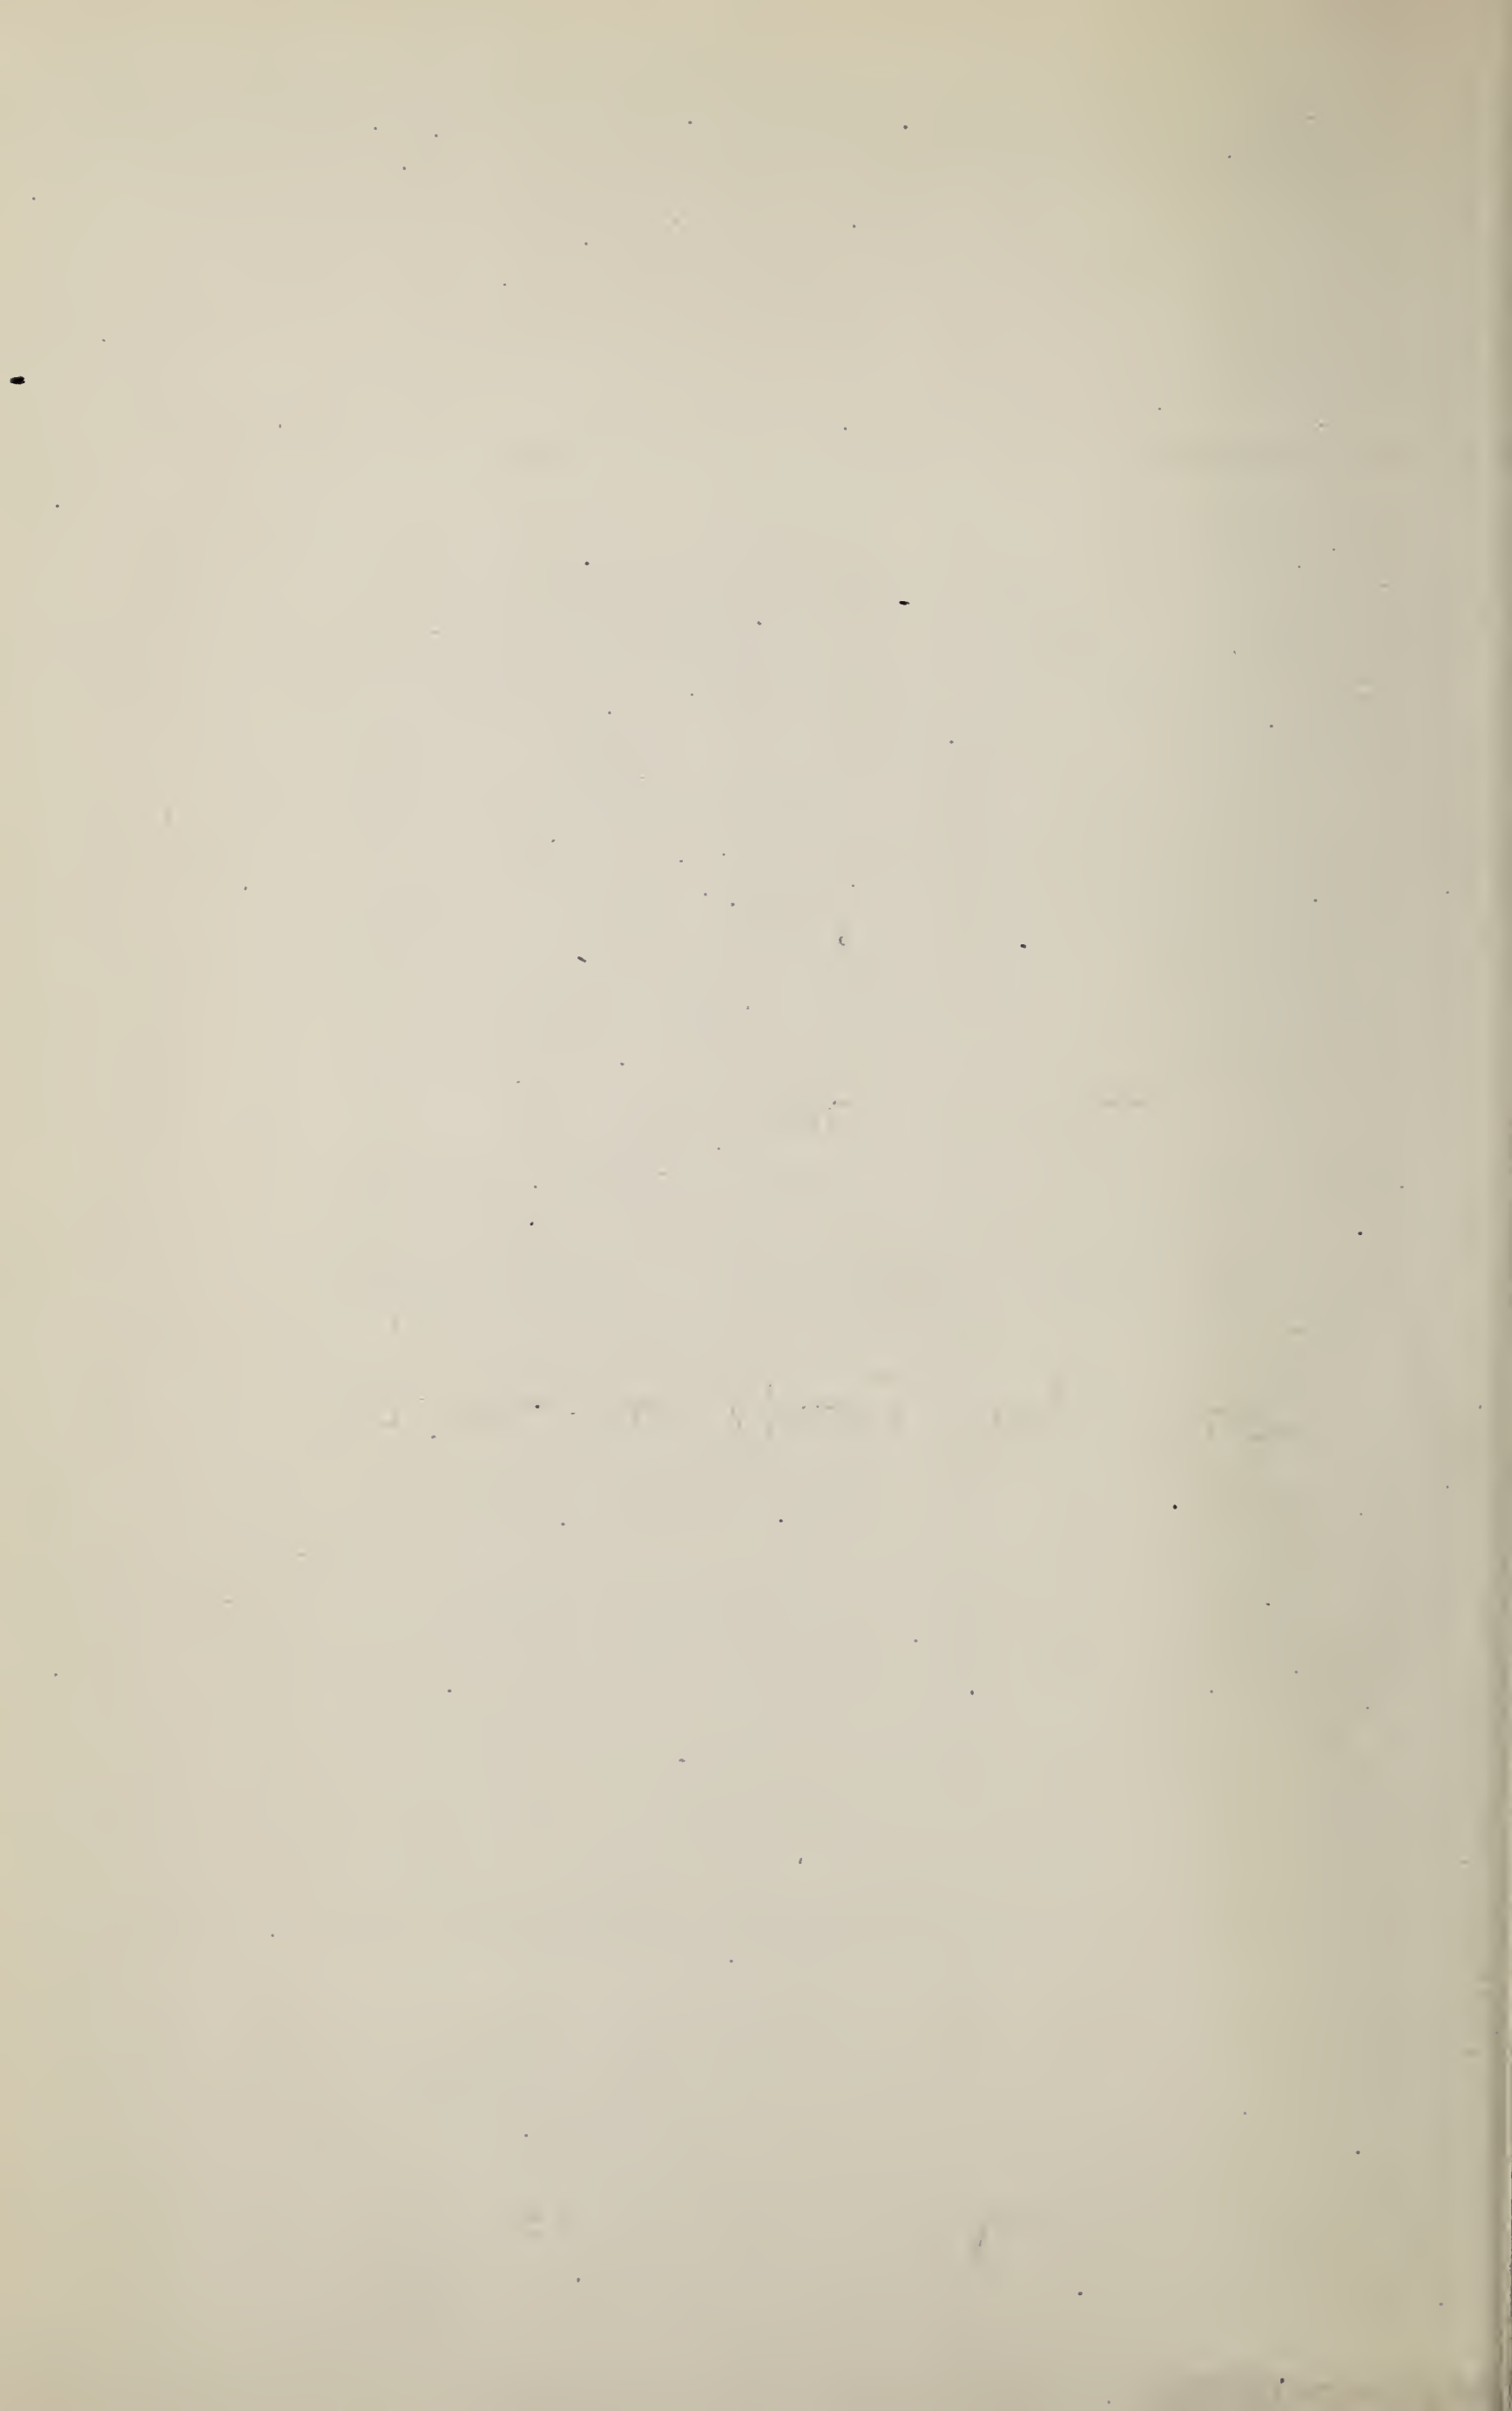

As pioneers, they entered land from the government, were energetic and thrifty, peace-loving and christian and left an influence for good on the communities in which they lived.

Alas! how few are left to tell
How they lived so long ago;
The grass is growing o'er their graves
On hills, in valley low,
The plow share strikes a musket old,
That tells with silent tongue
The story of the dear old days
When the Pioneer was young.

Oh many a time it hath been told
The story of these men of old;
For this, proud eloquence hath breathed!
Devotion too, hath lingered round
Each spot of consecrated ground,
Where our Pioneer fathers strayed,
Where they loved and wept and prayed
And where their ashes rest.

People will not look forward to Posterity,
Who never look backward to their Ancestors.

History and Record
of the
John More Family in America

Small Bay - 1898

Small Bay - 1898

JOHN MORE I, was born in Germany, in 1714.

(The story has been handed down that the More ancestry was Scotch-Irish, but for some reason, presumably religious, the family was in Germany at the time of John More's birth.)

He came to America when he was a young man. In 1744 he married Sophiah Cake, a native of New Jersey. They settled in Virginia, near Staunton, where they established a home. Fourteen children were born to them, thirteen boys and one girl. The names of only three boys are known; Samuel, Henry and John II.

(It is a conjecture that one was named Eli, or Ely, since this name was found on early records of the More family in Virginia; this name has also been repeated in More families through several generations.)

(Samuel was with General George Rogers Clark in the settling of the Northwest territory. In a history of General George Rogers Clark, mention is made of Samuel More, who did scouting in Vincennes and also in Illinois.)

John More I, accompanied his only daughter on a trip to Kentucky; while enroute, the wagon upset and broke his leg and he died from the injuries.

He was remembered as a good provider and a peaceable man. His wife, Sophiah Cake More, later moved to Miami County, Ohio, and made her home with her son, John II, where she lived the remainder of her life.

JOHN MORE II, was the youngest of the fourteen children of John and Sophiah Cake More. He was born in Virginia in 1772. When he was very young, he was "bound out" to a farmer named Whipp, who lived in New Jersey, (from Whitley County History). After serving his time with Mr. Whipp, he returned to the Gandy neighborhood in Virginia.

(The Whitley County history also says that John More II was with Anthony Wayne in 1792 when he fought the Indians near the location of Fort Wayne, Indiana.)

John More II, married Sarah Gandy in 1797 in Virginia. They established a home in Monongalia County, Virginia (now West Virginia), but in 1806 they came to Ohio. Three children had been born in Virginia, viz; Samuel, Sophiah and Eli. The family boarded a flat boat, taking with them their only domestic animal, a mulley cow. They floated down the Ohio river to Cincinnati, and located in Montgomery County not far north of Cincinnati. They stayed here only a year or two, and moved farther North, into Miami County, near Tippecanoe City. They entered 160 acres of land, built a brick house and had a comfortable home.

(Later a small house was built in the orchard where the mother, Sophiah Cake More lived.)

(In the biography of Shelby More in the Carroll County history, it says that the family came over-land by wagon from Virginia, but the author favors the flatboat story as it had been handed down many years previous to the Whitley County Mores. Also, it would seem the more logical mode of transportation from Virginia to Cincinnati that long ago.)

After leaving Virginia, seven more children were born, one during the migration, which died in infancy; one (Sarah) was born during the stay in Montgomery County, Ohio, and the other five were born in Miami County, Ohio.

Five of these children came to Indiana, (1828-1835) and settled for permanent residence. Samuel, Sophiah (Beard), Eli, and Sarah (Murphy) located in Carroll County, (Clay Township) and John William located in Whitley County, (Union Township). The four families in Carroll County, lived near each other, (the farms adjoining) and a close family relationship existed. Each had large families, and the cousins formed a clan, almost a century ago, which still exists in later generations.

(These children of John and Sarah Gandy More came to Indiana on the recommendation of their father, who after having been to Indiana with Anthony Wayne in 1792, considered it a land of opportunity.)

In an old letter written from Ohio to the Indiana Mores, dated June 25, 1841, the youngest son of John More II, tells of his father's last illness and death, which occurred on the 13th day of that month. This letter was written to Whitley County and requested them to send the word on to Carroll County.

(It is significant that this family has, from early history to the present time, spelled the name More, instead of the usual Moore.)

A log house was built, which housed the family for many years. After coming to Indiana two more children were born, Jermima and Alexander.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the origin of life. It is shown that the problem is one of the most important and interesting in the history of science. The author discusses the various theories of the origin of life, and shows that the most probable one is the theory of spontaneous generation. This theory states that life originated from non-living matter, and that it has since developed into the various forms of life that we see today.

2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the evidence for the theory of spontaneous generation. The author discusses the various experiments that have been conducted to test this theory, and shows that the results of these experiments are in favor of the theory. He also discusses the various observations that have been made of the origin of life, and shows that these observations are also in favor of the theory.

3. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the implications of the theory of spontaneous generation. The author shows that the theory has important implications for our understanding of the history of life on Earth, and for our understanding of the nature of life itself. He also discusses the various applications of the theory, and shows that it has many practical uses.

4. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the future of the theory of spontaneous generation. The author shows that the theory is still a subject of active research, and that there are many questions that remain to be answered. He also discusses the various methods that are being used to study the origin of life, and shows that these methods are becoming increasingly sophisticated.

5. The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the conclusion of the author. He shows that the theory of spontaneous generation is the most probable one, and that it has many important implications. He also discusses the various applications of the theory, and shows that it has many practical uses.

The John William More Family

1810 - 1887

JOHN WILLIAM MORE, son of John and Sarah Gandy More, was born in Miami County, Ohio, May 27, 1810. On February 3, 1831 he married Mary Speer, who was born July 29, 1810.

(Mary Speer was the daughter of Margaret McClure Speer, who was born Oct. 24, 1787 and died Jan. 28, 1883. She was the daughter of Robert McClure. She later married Engle.)

In the fall of 1833, John More, in company with his uncle, Otho Gandy, and his younger brother, William Gandy More, started from Ohio for Indiana. The party ended its journey in Whitley County, where with the assistance of John Strain, a surveyor, each member of the party entered land, after which the party returned to Ohio.

In the fall of 1835, the same party, with the addition of Benson Gandy (son of Otho Gandy) returned to Whitley county and built houses on the land they had entered. These houses were hewed log houses and were completed about the time snow began to fall in the early winter of 1835.

The only people in the vicinity were two colored families.

In February, 1836, John William More, his wife and two children, (Sarah Ann and Alexander) started west to their new home in Indiana and after enduring the hardships of a long journey on sleds through new country in bitter cold weather, they arrived at their new home on a cold, stormy night toward the end of February.

There had been no doors or windows put in when the house was built the fall before. While John William More built a fire, his wife, Mary Speer More, hung blankets over the doors and windows. The family lived in this house several years, after which a comfortable house was built.

(In July, 1940, the Author spent three days in Miami County, Ohio in search of history and data concerning the three youngest children of John and Sarah Gandy More. She was pleased to locate the widow of Christopher Krise, (son of Huldah More Krise). She is a very interesting person, eighty-six years of age, who remembered her husband's people quite well. Also, could relate much of the history of John and Sarah Gandy More in Miami County. She accompanied the Author to the farm where the family had lived. This farm is on the East side of the Dixie Highway No. 25, about one mile south of Tippecanoe City.

(The Dixie Highway follows the old trail north of Cincinnati, through Dayton and Montgomery Counties and doubtless is the one our ancestors followed.)

Mrs. Krise knew very little regarding the Pearson family or the William G. More family, but knew there was a relationship of the three families.)

RACHEL MORE, daughter of John and Sarah Gandy More was born in Miami County, Ohio. The date of her birth has not been definitely ascertained, but it is thought she was born in 1812.

On December 9, 1830 she married Aaron Pearson.

(The record at Troy shows that they were married by David Jenkins, Justice of Peace, and that Rachel was of legal age when married.)

It is thought that this family lived a few miles southeast of Troy, in what is known as the Pearson Settlement. The graves of some of their children were found in the Pearson grave yard, but could not find those of Rachel and Aaron Pearson.

They were the parents of five children, these names being found in the History of Miami County, in the biography of John M. Pearson who was their eldest son.

1. JOHN M. - (Apiarist) born October 21, 1831. Married Harriet Russell; died 1901.
 2. GEORGE W. - Civil War soldier; died 1872.
 3. ELI W. -
 4. CHRISTOPHER C. -
 5. SARAH A. -

WILLIAM GANDY MORE, youngest child of John and Sarah Gandy More, was born in Miami County, Ohio.

The date of his birth has not been definitely ascertained, but it is thought that he was born in 1816.

The record at Troy, Ohio, shows that on November 25, 1835, he married Mary Ann Favorite, the marriage being solemnized by John Pense, a minister of the Gospel. The record also shows that Mary Ann Favorite was under legal age and consent had to be given by her father.

In the biography of John William More, the statement is made that his brother, William Gandy More accompanied him to Indiana and entered land in Whitley county. But, evidently he did not remain for permanent residence, as the graves of William Gandy More and his wife, Mary Ann Favorite More, were found in the Maple Hill Cemetery at Tippecanoe City, Ohio. However, the author was unable to find any descendants of this family.

(Evidently Otho Gandy and his son, Benson Gandy, lived in Indiana, as some of the Gandy descendants live near Fort Wayne, Indiana.)
